

Position: PROJECT MANAGER

Panamerican Consultants, Inc. is a cultural resource consulting firm with offices in Alabama, Florida, New York, and Tennessee. The company has an immediate opening for a Project Manager working for the Tampa office in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. This mid-level position requires an M.A. in Anthropology/ Archaeology, Architectural History, or a closely related field with a strong background in cultural resource compliance/management. We are looking for a candidate with good writing and organizational skills capable of managing compliance projects with minimal corporate oversight. The Project Manager's duties will include performing GIS-based analyses while reviewing projects for their impacts on cultural resources, conducting records checks, and reporting findings to State and Federal agencies, as well as potentially managing and directing fieldwork and preparing CRM reports.

Compensation for this full time position includes salary and benefits, including paid vacation and holidays, health coverage, and a 401K plan. Salary will be negotiated and will be commensurate with experience.
